-Velocipede tournaments have been introduced in St. Louis. The exercises include t ilting at the ring, throwing the javelin, fencing with swords and similar trials of skill by bi cycle riders.

-John Russell Young, managing editor of the New York Tribune, has tendered his resignation and it has been accepted. It is understood that his successor will be Whitelaw Reid, of Cincinnati.

-One of the last frats on the Central Pacific R alroad was the laying of ten miles of track in one day, and one who timed the actual rate of work saw 240 feet of rail laid in one minute and fifteen seconds.

Ren Wade, of Ohio, it appears, has been appointed by President Grant a government director of the Pacific Ranway. About as good an office pecuniarily as that of President, without its responsibilities. -A man in Jacksonville, Fla., stole the re cently laid corner-stone of a new Biptist church, in order to get the silver coin and currency closed up in it. The stone was carried some distance, but the effort to get the money ont was a failure and promising young man, who held the position of Auditor of the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad, was so badly burned by the explosion of a kerosene lamp at Norfolk, last week, that he died next day.

-Carleton, the New York publisher, has lately purchased the Worth House, corner of Broadway and Fifth Avenue, standing on the most valuable ground of New York, and it is reported will make it a sort of a "home for rejected authors." He will soon have it full.

-Senator Cameron's opinion about Governor egance: "The only minister we of Pennsylvania have (except a negro, who cannot be a voter in our State,") said he, "is a man set down for Russia, who ought to be sent to the Lobos Islands, vice guano removed."

-Justice in Texas is still very rapid, if not always certain. A black mare was stolen from a livery stable, and, after search, was heard from in a distant town. The proprietors sent a messenger after her, and a day or two afterwards received a dispatch as follows: "Your mare is here; I will bring her; thief hung."

-A gentleman in Pittsburg, Penn., publishes the following offer: "I will donate twenty-dollars for every passage of Scripture where the immortality of the soul is mentioned, to any Church or Sunday-school the finder may elect." His address is John A. Best, Corner of Fifth-avenue and Tunnel-street, Pittsburg.

-A visitor of the famous Blue Spring, i Florida, says the spring, which is half a mile or s, from the St. John's River, is eighty or ninety feet across and some fathoms deep. It boils up with such force that a boat cannot be rowed upon it. The stream which is thus poured out makes a river about ninety feet wide and six feet deep.

-Governor Geary, of Pennsylvania, has pardoned the child murderess, Hester Vaughan, who, it will be remembered, was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be ha ged. Boon after the sentence a public meeting was got up in New York in her behalf, the influence of which was pressed on the Governor until Saturday, when he yielded.

-They have worn out a whipping-post and a pillory in Wilmington, Del., and have ercored new ones of a most subs antia character. The Delaware folks still have great faith in these ancient instruments of punishment. They say they keep rogues from coming into the State, and save the people from the necessity of resorting to lynch law and vigilance committees.

-A jury in New York has given a verdict against a telegraph company for $6600, w th interest, amounting in all to about $10 000, for failing to send a dispatch promptly over the wires to the address to which it was directed. The dispatch directed the sale of a quantity of petroleum; but by its non-delivery, and consequent non-performance of the business transaction, the plaintiffs averred they had suffer d a loss equal to the sum for which they brought suit, and which the jury promptly awarded. Samuel D. Taïbot, a young man residing ia Brooklyn, attempted to kill a young lady named Lizzie Scribner, who resides in the same house, early on Thursday morning. He had professed ardent love for the young lady. but she discountenanced his advances. He came home at an early hour of the night and attempted to chloroform her while she was acleep; but failing in that he shot at her twice. injuring her in the head and hand. Supposing that he had killed her, he retired to his own room and blew his brains out. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict accordingly. Miss Scribner is doing well, but her wounds are gentlemen of color have presented themselves for our suffrages, and at least two of them stand a chance of election. 'Doctor' Thomas Bayne opposes himself to the regular carpetbag nominee in the Norfolk District. He is as black a negro as the Almighty ever made, and bears all the characteristics of a genuine African. His eves are large, with a superfluity of white; his nose is as flat as a pancake; his lips present the appearance of a very large tomato mashed in two by a cart wheel; and his teeth. in contrast with his very black complexion, are white as the purest ivory. He wears a milk white choker and neckerchief, which once led somebody to describe him as a 'tar baby peeping out of a cream pot.' Such is Bayne-only a little more so. Withal he is entirely uneducated; uses 'dis' and 'dat,' 'dar' and 't'other,' with all the fluency of a corn field hand, but at the same time is remarkable for his originality of expression and large store of anecdotes. What a sensation he would make as the "gentleman from Virginia" in the House of Representatives! Here would be a real test of the willinguess of the Radicals to admit the negro to Bayne, who is himself a violent Radic I, says he means to run for Congress just to put the professions of his political brethren to this severe trial. Norton, who also calls himself 'Doctor,' is the regular candidate in the Yorktown District, despite the efforts of the Ceutral Committee to buy him off. He knows his letters, and, indeed, can read and write and cipher, but is a most remarkable embodiment of ignorance and conceit. He is a freckledfaced mulatto, wearing glasses and sporting a gold-headed cane. Rev. Fields Cook wishes to

The Value of Gold.

During the past four weeks gold has advanced 12 per cent, in the face of the contrary expectations of many well informed. persons, who entertained the opinion that the price of gold was regulated by the political circumstances of this country. The incorrectness of such an opinion, and the true causes of the advance in gold, may, we think, be easily shown.

It is now acknowledged that the prosperity of a nation is shown by the value of its exports, and as soon as its imports are in excess of the former, one of two conditions is shown to exist: if the excess of imports is paid for by the profits of trade, it of course shows prosperity; but if trade has been unprofitable, that excess them shows a Now what has been the condition of commerce during the past nine months? Continuously unprofitable. It may be safely assumed that the majority of the foreign merchants of the United States have scarcely cleared their running expenses, and but few have made any profit; while in Europe. mercantile failures have been frequent and

The exports of the United States for the period mentioned have been $45,000,000 last year, while the imports have been $30,000,000 in excess of those of the same period; making a difference against this country of $75,000,000, which could not be equalized by the profits of commerce, for there have been none, and which consequently have had to be paid in gold or an equally valuable commodity. About $50,-060,000 of this amount have been paid in United States bonds and the balance in gold. Exclusive of these bonds, there have been purchased by parties in Europe for investment, about $80,000,000 more, particularly of late, on account of the political disturbances with which they are momentarily threatened. So that altogether there are now held in Europe about $880,000,000 of

United States bonds. American So'long as a nation's debt is held by its own people, it is comparatively safe, for it may repudiate without fear, save as to its future oredit; but when held abroad, such will not be permitted. Every dollar of the $880.-000,000 held in Europe must be paid by our government in gold, even if it has to be exterted by something stronger than moral suasion. We have paid our debt, contracted through commerce, by new debts, and of course our credit is suffering. The debt in truth remains—it is not yet earcelled. This is one cause of the advance in gold, Again, the public debt has been increased $29 000,000 during the past year. If this occurs, instead of a decrease, during the fourth year of peace, what have we to expect during the four more years during which the present corrupt administration will be in power?

In 1864, gold touched 280; but no well informed person presumed that this showed the true depreciation of the currency, but more properly a public distrust and unreasonable excitement. Recently, with the currency inflated 50 per cent. and a disas trous state of trade, it touched 180, and we have no reason to presume this to be its true value more than the other. The truth is, that the currency is more depreciated than the price of gold shows. The latter has been kept down below its true value, and sconer or later must rise to the level of the depreciation of the currency. The supply of gold in this country is really only apparent. We hear of immense sales in New York, sometimes as much as $170. 000,000 daily, all of which is done with the use of not more than $3,000,000 of real cein. This is effected by means of the gold exchange bank, where balances are settled. This institution was established to facilitate gold transactions, diminish the demand for the real article, conceal the paucity of gold by an apparent abundance, and thus keep up the value of national currency. March 18, that he was deaf and dumb, and on This currency is now quoted at 71 cents to the dollar; but with the surreunding circumstances of the present and the future,

THE NEW YORK TIMES takes a just and sensible view of the condition of affairs in the South, and has already been blackguarded by the Tribune for daring to tell the truth. The Times says: "We do not believe these tales of wholesale murder and oppression, nor do we give credence to the allegation that "loyalists" are systematically persecuted and hunted down. There was a time, undoubtedly, when in some localities a hostile spirit ran high, and all the privileges of the white race. And when the assertion of Bepublican opinion involved more or less peril; but trustworthy evidence seems to show that this state of things no longer exists. So far as we can judge, life and property are quite as secure at the South as at the North. Taking population into account, we are convinced that the percentage of crime is no greater anywhere in the South. and certainly not in Georgia, than in the North or West. For every murder committed there we will undertake to find a murder here. For every outrage that admits of verification in Georgia, we will trace a parallel outrage in Indiana or New York. Nay, we are persuaded that, all things considered, there is less crime in Virginia, in South Carolina, in Alabama, and even in Georgia, than in this State or in other parts of the North. This city could easily supply a chapter of borrors, of recent date: which, by a parity of reasoning, Southern observers might cite as proofs of savagery and demoralization. Such an application of facts would be unwarranted;; but it would be not; less legitimate than the endeavor of the Anti-Blavery Society fanatics to arraign the whole South for the acts of its criminal class. It is. absurd to look for a greater average of virtue, or greater immunity from crime, than we are contented with here. What Georgia and its neighbors may fairly plead is, that in respect of offences against person and property, they have nothing to fear from comparison with Massachuset our Mickigan. And this is all
